

Star-spattered sky in H,H-COSY

Tobias Severin, 2014

Inorganic Chemistry Department | Leipzig University

Field strength: 400 MHz

Why is this your favorite spectrum?

I like this 2D-NMR spectrum a lot since it looks like a beautiful constellation in the night sky with two very bright shining stars, which are obviously the two strongest signals in my spectrum.